

Narichika Hamaguchi had conducted research and development about computer graphics-based content production, description, distribution, and user behavior analysis of social TV at NHK Science and Technology Research Laboratories (STRL) since 2000. He had a professional master degree of MOT (Management of Technology) and Ph.D. in engineering degree at Tokyo Institute of Technology. Currently, he is working on IP distribution, 4K/8K standardization and new tech strategy at Planning Division, Engineering Administration Department.